Fireman Killed, Score Injured In Train Crash

Midnight Flyer, Boston to New York, Plows Through Freight Train—Fireman Dies, Engineer and Two Trainmen Seriously Injured, 16 Others Slightly Hurt.

Mansfield, Mass., May 24.—Fireman Ernest Redding, 42, of New Haven, Conn., who with his engineer bravely stayed at his post as the "Owl" midnight flyer, Boston to New York over the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, plowed through a freight train at the cross over here early today, died at Rhode Island State Hospital in Providence this morning.

James W. Durling, the engineer of the "Owl," was dying of internal injuries at the hospital.

Two other trainmen were seriously injured and sixteen others were less seriously hurt.

The locomotive of the midnight express telescoped one of the freight cars, and crashed into and set afire the signal tower. Three sleeping cars on the eleven car train were derailed, one turning on its side.

The freight train of nineteen cars, enroute from Taunton to Lowell, was on the cross-over when the express thundered down the main line.

After the crash rails on the four tracks were twisted and torn up for 200 feet. The demolished signal tower caught fire from the big locomotive of the "Owl" as it swung about after hitting a coal car near the end of the freight train. The two story tower, reduced to kindling wood, was soon a mass of tangled wires, pipes and telegraph poles.

The signal man escaped with his life by jumping from his window to the ground, a distance of fifteen feet.

A Clear Signal.

The dying engineer and signal man both blame each other for the wreck. Engineer Durling said that he had a clear signal when his headlights fell on the tower. Thomas Manning, spare man at the tower, claims the signals were set against the express. Ridding, the fireman, before his death agreed with the statements of his engineer. Manning declared he had set the signal at "red."

When the first rays of dawn straggled over the wreckage, the semaphore stood out in full relief with the arm standing straight out at right angles to the upright, indicating that the track was not clear. The mechanism controlling the signal arm was destroyed, however.

The impact of the collision was terrific, snapping the tender from the locomotive and catapulting it over the big locomotive.

Thirty-two passengers were rescued from the first Pullman sleeper that turned over on its side. The fire department of Mansfield, summoned by an alarm pulled in by a railroad engineer, threw ladders up to the side of the car and assisted the pajama-clad figures out through a smashed window.

Three cars of the freight train were still on the cross-over when the express came up. The "Owl's" locomotive locked with a loaded coal car and a second freight car, a box car, was cut in two. The caboose in which Hewes, the conductor, was riding was tossed ahead.

Leaping free of the tender, the locomotive swung around and smashed into the signal tower.

Fireman Dies.

Engineer Durling, who stuck to his post until the last, was hurled clear of the cab, landing cut and bleeding on an embankment.

Fireman Ridding was pinned under the wreckage of the locomotive. His legs were crushed, his body bore many injuries and he was hurt internally. He died three hours after reaching the hospital in Providence.

Flames were creeping toward the fireman when he was discovered by Dr. Frederick Griffin, of Mansfield, and Thomas S. Taylor, of Mansfield, a railroad engineer. They dug Ridding out.

Taylor had been eating an early morning breakfast in a Mansfield lunchroom when he heard the crash. Leaving word to those in the restaurant to call doctors, Taylor ran to the scene.

Convey Injured to Hospitals.

Firemen were also summoned. They divided their work in rescuing passengers from the sleeping cars and in extinguishing the flames.

Conductor Hewes of the freight train was trapped in the caboose and was severely injured.

Every physician in town came to the scene and the railroad brought a new train to convey the injured to the hospitals at Providence and to take the uninjured on their journey to New York.

Two priests, the Rev. H. B. Harrold and the Rev. J. B. Chippendale, went among the injured at the Mansfield Station giving first aid.

Firemen were hampered because the nearest hydrant to the wreck was buried under a mass of debris when the tower fell.

Mansfield Tavern was thrown open and Mrs. Blossom Seeley, the well known actress, and others were taken there.

Traffic over both lines was tied up for hours as the locomotive lay across three tracks and the other was torn up.

Engineer Taylor describing the wreck said: "We found Fireman Redding pinned under the wreckage. We tried to lift him but he groaned in pain. He begged us to leave him. The fire was heading toward him. He was 'game.' Finally we got him out."

Ridding and his engineer and the injured Pullman porter were carried in automobiles to the Rhode Island Hospital. Others were taken on the train.

Statements of Passengers.

This forenoon a wrecking crew was at work clearing the lines.

Miss Madeline Oestricher, merchandise manager of a Boston department store, said: "I was awakened by a terrific crash. Shrieks, cries and moans rent the air. I was thrown from my berth to the floor. I felt an awful pain in the back of my neck. There were not lights. I crept on my hands and knees. Finally I got to the door and then to the ground. Then I fainted."

Mrs. Flo Dierx, No. 100 Fourteenth avenue, Beechurst, L. I., said:

"A Pullman porter caught me as I fainted. He carried me to safety."

Betty Washington, the actress, said: "I was sound asleep. Suddenly I was hurled from my berth. I remember striking my head against something. That was the last I remember." Three men had carried Miss Washington to the open air.

Walter Kane, the actor, was injured and collapsed at the side of the track. He and others in the party were taken to Mansfield Tavern.

The wreck was not without its humorous side. Passengers in car No. 148 were loud in their praise of their porter. He ran through the car crying "is you all right" then: "Well, if you all ain't hurt now, you all aint going to get hurt."

Investigation Started.

Boston, May 24.—An investigation of the train wreck at Mansfield, in which one person was killed and twenty-five hurt, was started today by the Railroad and Railway Division of the State Department of Public Utilities.

Two inspectors of the division, Michael Scully and Timothy Connor, were named to make the investigation. It is expected they will make a report to the department in about two days.

ATTEMPT TO KILL LEADER OF PEASANT PARTY

Paris, May 24.—An attempt has been made to assassinate M. Raditch, leader of the Croatian Peasant Party and member of the Yugo-Slavian Cabinet, according to reports received here from Serbia.

M. Raditch has long been a storm center in Yugo-Slavian politics and his admission to the Cabinet was in an effort to bring about an accord, but his presence in the Cabinet has caused recent Cabinet difficulties.

LEAGUE SIDETRACKS DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Geneva, May 24.—One difficult problem before the League of Nations Disarmament Commission was sidetracked today. Hugh Gibson, American delegate, said that the United States was not interested in these questions.

"Dry" Order Will Be Used Rarely, Says Andrews

Says General Andrews In Defending Executive Order—Object To Confer Dignity and Give County Agents Right To Cross County Lines.

Washington, May 24.—Evidence that the federal government is beginning to backtrack on its ambitious plan to put federal prohibition badges on thousands of state, county, and municipal officers was forthcoming from the Treasury today.

In the face of widespread condemnation by wets and drys alike in congress and elsewhere, Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the enforcement chief, admitted today that the authority to enlist local officers contained in President Coolidge's far-reaching executive order "will be used rarely and carefully through temporary commissions, revocable at any time."

"I am not going to send a New York agent to enforce the dry law in Florida, for example," said Andrews, notwithstanding that his bureau has been given this authority by the executive order.

Good Move Says Andrews.

"The principal object of this step is to confer on carefully selected state and county agents more dignity, and give them authority to step over county lines. I consider the order a good move, and in line with the spirit of the Eighteenth Amendment."

While contending that the ordeal is legal, Gen. Andrews admitted that no opinion as to its constitutionality had been sought prior to its submission to the White House for President Coolidge's signature. Constitutional authorities in the senate have characterized it as "revolution" and "indefensible."

Gen. Andrews confirmed reports that the order is not to be extensively carried out, and that for the time being its operation is to be confined to California.

"There is to be no effort to deputize all state, county and municipal officers," said Gen. Andrews. "Authority under this order will be used rarely and carefully through the use of temporary commissions, which can be revoked at any time.

"We would be loath to confer Federal authority on everyone, not in the Federal government and over whom we have no control."

Wheeler Is Silent.

Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, who usually is quick to approve any introduction of "new teeth" or drastic measures to enforce the law, refused to comment on the new order today. He said he had nothing to say concerning it.

Wheeler issued a statement ascribing defeat of Senator Robert N. Stanfield in Oregon, to "loss of faith and confidence by the friends of prohibition" in Oregon. He asserted the wet victory in Pennsylvania, through the nomination of William S. Vare, was offset by the nomination of Frederick Stelwar, a dry, in Oregon.

"Drys have won their proportion of victories in the congressional primaries," said Wheeler.

Negro Went on Rampage Sunday

Sam Williams, a negro brickyard worker, went on a rampage Sunday and armed with a big butcher knife frightened the other negroes on Staples's brickyard to such an extent that a hurry call was sent to police headquarters and Officer Charles Murphy placed Sam under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. This morning Judge Shufeldt sentenced Sam to ninety days in the Albany penitentiary. Some time ago Sam served a three months' sentence in the penitentiary when found guilty of disorderly conduct.

SAUGERTIES-PALENVILLE ROAD BEING CONCRETED

Work on the Saugerties-Palenville state highway is progressing. Concrete has been placed on the westerly side of the roadway for the entire length and is now being allowed to season before being opened to traffic. Until this is opened to traffic persons travelling the road may use the opposite side of the road for a distance of about a mile. This is fairly smooth and passable. The one way concrete road will be opened to traffic in a few days, giving a good road all the way to the foot of the mountain.

Runaway Self in Jail.

Waukegan, Ill., May 24.—A. W. Winn, 28, sailor at The Great Lakes Naval Training Station, is dead here today because he could not bear the stigma of conviction as a "Peeping Tom." Kills Mother in Drunken Rage

Chicago, May 24.—John P. Manion emerged from a moonshine stupor in the county jail today and learned that during his drunken frenzy last night he murdered his mother.

She was Mrs. Bridget White, a frail little woman of 60. She was sitting in her home with her brother-in-law, John White, when Manion, a youth of 23, staggered in with a bottle of liquor.

"You can't drink here," shouted White.

Manion drank the liquor and then picked up a butcher knife. As he lurched at White, his mother threw herself between them. The blade pierced her body.

"Oh, John, my boy, you've killed me," she cried. A minute later she was dead.

SUNDAY FIRE DAMAGES GREEN STREET RESIDENCE.

Considerable damage was done by fire, smoke and water to a portion of the double frame residence building at 121-123 Green street through a blaze which started about 12:30 noon on Sunday. The firemen made a quick response to the alarm, found the fire which was in the apartment of Mrs. Adelaide E. Corey upstairs in No. 123, there being a mass of flames. Two streams of water were played on the fire. It was said that Mrs. Corey had left the room after lighting the gas under a gas plate and when she returned found that a door that stood against the plate was on fire. She is quite aged and in her efforts to save some articles was slightly burned about her hands as was also Mrs. Elbert J. Gildersleeve, who also occupies an apartment in the house. The property is owned by Mrs. Emma J. Hornbeck, who resides in No. 121.

Big Cities in California Are Against Dry Law

Designating Police To Serve Both Federal Government, State and County—Plan To Enlist County Officers Says Enforcement Officer.

San Francisco, May 24.—President Coolidge's executive order legalizing use of policemen, deputy sheriffs and constables throughout the country as prohibition agents in a drastic effort to enforce the eighteenth amendment is apparently not being received with any too much enthusiasm in California, where the plan is to be given its first tryout.

Checkup today revealed that sheriffs, police chiefs, district attorneys and other officials, especially in the larger cities and more populous counties of the state, were vigorously opposed to the plan to create an organization of "prohibition police" serving both the federal government and the state, city or county.

Through all the excitement, however, Colonel Ned M. Green, enforcement officer in charge of the Northern California district and father of the new plan, was, on the outside at least, the calmest man in the state.

"It's simply a plan to enlist the aid of county officers where it will aid in law enforcement," Col. Green declared. "We don't expect cooperation from the large cities. They have their police officers and are able to take care of their situation."

Enthusiastic support has been given the plan by officials of 35 California counties, Col. Green said. "Perhaps in two or three months we will have thirty or forty of these agents scattered throughout Northern California," he declared.

In Sacramento, however, Clarence S. Morrill, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification, said that neither he nor any of his department deputies would accept designation as federal officers under the White House order.

"The Prohibition Law is a federal law and I think it is strictly up to the federal government to enforce it," Morrill said.

According to Otis D. Babcock, chief deputy district attorney of Sacramento, the only advantage he could see in the new plan is that it may permit sheriff's deputies to execute search warrants issued by the federal courts.

"Aside from this," Babcock declared, "our office is attempting to enforce the Wright Act, which is identical with the National Prohibition Law."

City Attorney Robert L. Shinn of Sacramento declared it was his belief that the law of California would permit the use of municipal officers for "ordinary enforcement."

"In this state," Shinn declared, "I believe such duty could be performed as long as it is not incompatible with the regular duties of the police officer."

Sheriff Thomas Finn of San Francisco said he could not be affected "for the simple reason that I have no deputy sheriffs to devote to the cause of prohibition enforcement."

Chief of Police Daniel J. O'Brien of San Francisco declared that "outside of the fact that our police force has all it can do, our charter specifically forbids policemen being employed by the state or federal government for a compensation, however small."

POSEN GROUP STILL OPPOSED TO PILSUDSKI.

Warsaw, May 24.—Warfare has given way to politics, as preparations are being made for the meeting of the National Assembly one week hence, when an effort will be made to elect Marshal Pilsudski President of Poland.

The Posen Group is reported to still be adamant, and it is expected that this Nationalist Group may use all of its force to prevent the election of Pilsudski.

Among some army officers the monarchist movement, with Pilsudski favored as king, is still going on, but this movement lacks sufficient popular support to make it seem possible.

Name Captains for Northern Dist. in Hospital Drive

Territory Covered Includes Northern Towns of Ulster and Part of Greene County—Allied Towns Division Workers to Meet in Kingston.

Hon. Martin Cantine, chairman of the northern district of the $300,000 Kingston City Hospital campaign, announced on Saturday the names of the captains of the campaign force in this district who have been appointed, and expects soon to announce the remaining names that will complete the full list of officers.

Meanwhile the captains already appointed are busily recruiting members for the teams that will conduct the active soliciting from June 5th to the 15th. Holley R. Cantine chairman of the Saugerties district, has been of great assistance in this work of organization.

A list of the captains already appointed and of the communities in which they will serve follows:

Kathryn Burhans in Lake Katrine, town of Ulster and East Kingston; Mrs. John A. Snyder, Mrs. E. C. Reed, R. C. Washburn and E. A. Washburn in Saugerties; Poultney Bigelow in Malden; Ben I. Talmadge in Windham and Hensonville; S. B. Schwarzwaelder in Shandaken and Chichester; Joseph J. McGrath and John C. Gross in Phoenicia; Fred D. Cure in Pine Hill; John Lent in Glasco; S. A. Holcomb in Palenville; and Sam Golding in Tannersville and Hunter.

Dr. George F. Chandler, campaign executive chairman, announces that all of the captains and lieutenants of the thirty-two teams that will serve in Kingston have been appointed, and that posters and pamphlets that will be used in connection with the campaign have been completed and are in the hands of the printers for an early delivery.

An illustrated folder, including a picture of the new hospital, pictures portraying the work of the hospital and a map of the district covered by the campaign, together with explanations of these features, is soon to be mailed to prospective subscribers, thus paving the way for the active soliciting of subscriptions by team members.

The "Workers' Manual" has been prepared for the purpose of instructing the workers in salesmanship, and in the work done by the hospital and the need of this district for more hospital accommodations and service. The first part of this manual tells the facts about the hospital's history and service, the second tells the reasons which make the hospital expansion necessary, and the third is a condensed set of instructions in salesmanship designed to save the time of both the prospect and the worker and at the same time to make the appeal effective. One of these manuals will be given to every worker so that he may make an informed approach to his prospect.

Allied Town Campaign Schedule.

All committee members, captains, lieutenants and team members in the Allied Towns Division, comprising all places outside of Kingston, are cordially invited to attend these informal meetings at the armory in Kingston as guests of the campaign:

Opening dinner, Friday, June 4, 6:30 p. m. The most important meeting of the campaign—for essential instructions.

Rally luncheon, Wednesday, June 9, 12:15 p. m. For first reports of subscriptions.

Victory dinner, Tuesday, June 15, 6:30 p. m. For second and final reports of subscriptions.

Allied Town teams will make their first reports of subscriptions obtained at the Wednesday meeting, and their second and final reports at the victory dinner.

These three meetings will be held jointly by the Kingston teams and the Allied Town teams. The Kingston teams will also report subscriptions on Monday and Friday, June 7 and 11; but it is felt that the out-of-town teams could hardly be expected to come in on these two additional days, as that would mean making the round trip five times, practically every other day.

All these meetings will be held in the armory.

I have to make a business trip to New York once a week.

Because I was afraid to leave them home, I always took my deeds, insurance policies, bank book and $1,200 in bonds along in my valise.

A friend on the train asked me why I held on so fearfully to my valise.

I told him why.

Then he gave me some good advice.

DID REALLY COMMUNE WITH "GREAT SPIRIT"

Billy Dixon's Rifle Bullet Helped Him Do It.

One incident which had to do with the proper settlement of Indian troubles in the Southwest in the early '70s was the pot-shot of Billy Dixon with his old Sharps buffalo gun. It happened in this manner:

Among the several thousand Indians who attacked the handful of scouts at Adobe Walls, under Quanah Parker, was a head medicine man of the Comanches, who undertook to foretell the destiny of the attacking party. This medicine man told the assembled warriors that the Great Spirit had said that they would be victorious; that they would exterminate the buffalo hunters and suffer no material loss in numbers. To make his medicine more effective he announced that he would ride to the top of a near-by cliff and there commune once more with the Great Spirit. And so he did. Just as he reached the top of the cliff, Billy Dixon, who had sneaked outside the sodhouse, which was Adobe Walls, to reconnoiter, saw the savage silhouetted against the skyline. Quickly dropping to one knee, Dixon took a quick aim and fired. The medicine man of the Comanches dropped from his horse, shot through the heart at a distance of 1,200 yards. Though his prophecy was fulfilled, and he really held communion with the Great Spirit in deed as well as word, nevertheless his cronies did not like the quick taking off, and therefore fought but half-heartedly.

Mrs. W. T. Coble, a long-time resident of the district in which the site of Adobe Walls is situated, had a conversation with Lone Wolf, the war chief of the attacking party, previous to the battle, in which the latter stated his purpose of attacking the party of buffalo hunters and exterminating them, for the preservation of the buffalo in that region. The other chiefs in the Comanche forces at this battle were Satank, Big Tree, Little Raven and Satanta.

Adobe Walls is situated on the old Turkey Track cattle ranch, which now belongs to Tom Coble. Billy Dixon died in Cimarron county, Okla., in 1913, and was buried in Texline, near the border of Texas and Oklahoma.

Three of the buffalo hunters were killed in the Adobe Walls fight, the two Shadler brothers and Billy Taylor, who lie buried on the battlefield.—Raymond W. Thorp in Adventure Magazine.

Cheese Imports Gaining

The large importations of cheese by the United States may be accounted for largely by the difference in variety between American and foreign cheese, although, with the exception of certain Greek and Italian products which are consumed by immigrants from these countries, most of the types of cheese imported are now being produced in the United States, says Commerce Reports. Our imports of cheese in 1925 amounted to 61,618,700 pounds, as compared with 59,176,891 pounds in 1924. The principal sources are Italy, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands and Greece.

Tell of Glacial Age

Relics of the glacial period, estimated to be from 25,000 to 30,000 years old, have been discovered by Professor Salis of Freiburg university in several caves of the Rhaetic forest. The historical treasures comprise the earliest parts of skeletons of the fauna of the glacial period, such as the cave lion, glacial fox, bones of the steppes and reindeer, as well as numerous hand implements made of flint.

Greeks Are Philanthropists

In Greece the wealthy men make gifts to the nation and leave legacies to their enterprises in a way that excludes the rich men of any other nation in Europe. This is due partly to the native desire of the Greeks to improve themselves and to transfer that eagerness to corporate affairs.

Origin of Budget

Budget is from the old French "bougette," meaning a wallet. The use of the word in its present sense is from the custom of bringing into the house of commons all papers pertaining to matters of expenditure, in a leather bag, and laying them on the table.

The devotional meeting was a spiritual help to all members present. Business meeting followed with Mrs. Keefe in the chair. Minutes read and approved. Reports were given. Motion made that the W. C. T. U. go on record as being opposed to moving pictures on Sunday. Seconded and carried. After this meeting there was a social hour and light refreshments were served. FATHER KILLS CRIPPLE DAUGHTER AND SELF.

New York, May 24.—A "merciful murder," in which the aged father shot his crippled daughter to death and then committed suicide, was under police investigation today.

The principals were Frederick Raabe, 62 years old, and his daughter, Evelyn, 22, who had been hopelessly paralyzed since birth.

Since the death of Mrs. Raabe, several years ago, the man and the girl had been living alone together in a small Brooklyn apartment, Raabe struggling to make a living as a machinist and still care for the needs of his helpless daughter.

A neighbor broke into the apartment and found the man and the girl dead with a bullet in the brain of each and the gas turned on. The following note explained the tragedy:

"I cannot stand this mental agony any longer. My nerves are wrecked. Good-bye to all. There are $35 in a tin box. My will and bank account will take care of all expenses."

Haney Still Leading.

Portland, Ore., May 24.—With less than a hundred precincts out of 1,847 in the state still to be heard from, Bert E. Haney, former member of the United States Shipping Board and Democratic candidate for the nomination to the United States Senate, was today leading Elton Watkins, former congressman, 16,315 to 15,102.

Support for Grapevines

The bureau of plant industry says that copper wire may be used to support grapevines. While the copper wire is more expensive at first, some believe that it is cheaper in the long run, as it endures longer than galvanized iron, which is used more universally. The galvanized iron wire needs to be removed in about three years. No. 10 wire is the size which is used for vineyard trellis.

Express Bus Line To Marlborough

John A. DuBois of the Diamond D. bus line is planning to start an express bus service between Newburgh and Kingston about June 12. Stops will be made along the line at Marlborough, Milton, Highland and Kingston only. A careful schedule will be arranged to allow the making of connections with trains and the Hudson River Day Line boats, etc., as well as to get citizens into Kingston in time for court sessions and home again after court has closed. The special bus secured is a Gulider, the very latest bus in construction, and is of twenty-nine passenger size, the newest parlor car type. The interior finishings are in genuine leather with leather cushions and chairs and silk curtains to match outside color of the bus which is Rolls Royce blue with gold leaf trim. A baggage rack on top is provided for tourists. This new bus line will be a great convenience for residents and others all along the route taken by the bus who hope Mr. DuBois will be as successful as he has been with his other bus lines during the many years he has operated them.

WALDEN MAN RAN AUTOMOBILE INTO A TELEGRAPH POLE.

George Rogers of Walden while driving his auto through Wilbur avenue Sunday at noon left the road and struck a telegraph pole, mapping it off at the butt. The auto was gotten back onto the road under its own power and Rogers escaped with some cuts on the head which were dressed by Dr. John F. Larkin. In the car with Rogers was William Clarke of Walden and Edna Jackson of Newburgh, and both escaped injury. When the pole fell it carried with it the electric and telephone wires and also the fire alarm circuit wire. The charged wires came into contact with the fire alarm wire, burning out the Wilbur fire alarm box and causing other damage to the fire alarm system, which was the reason for numerous alarms being sounded on the Wilbur and Abeel street fire house bells Sunday when the alarm was sounded for the boarding house fire on Green street at noon.

Bootleggers Need No Records.

Washington, May 24.—Bootleggers cannot be compelled to keep a record of their sales for federal inspection, the Supreme Court held today. The decision was rendered in a case involving Jacob Katz, George Sena and Herman Feuerstein, all of Philadelphia, who were charged with conspiracy to violate the dry law, and with failing to keep records.

Fire in Marlborough.

About 10 o'clock Sunday morning the fire department responded to a call from the boarding house of Lewis Lankisky at 68 Murray street where a blaze had broken out in some clothing in a closet in the apartment of John Morton. There was but slight fire damage.

ITALY'S SHARE.

Many wondered at the news that flags were flying everywhere and processions filled the streets of Italian cities in celebration of the Norge's successful flight over the North Pole, but the facts show that it was to a large extent Italy's triumph. The Norge was designed by Col Umberto Nobile, it was built under his supervision near Rome, and its three mechanicians were Italians It seems that Italy has led the world in the building of flexible dirigibles, and Col. Nobile—who came to this country in 1923 to help design our first semi-rigid airship constructed at Akron—was known as the leading aeronautical engineer in this field before Amundsen's flight was planned. Moreover, the celebrating Italians were aware that it was their Marconi's invention that enabled the Norge to keep in touch with the world. It is justly contended that Col Nobile has done as much for aeronautical progress as Amundsen and Ellsworth have accomplished for Arctic exploration.

In this connection it comes to mind that the other day, an Italian correspondent having protested against the reluctance of "some people to admit that there is something good in the more or less despised Italian race," the New York Times pointedly responded. "When one remembers how many centuries Italian civilization antedates that of most of the rest of Europe—that their ancestors were ruling well, and giving good laws to what passed for the world when the ancestors of almost all of us were still ba barians—the idea of despising them, as Italians, is distinctly ludicrous, as well as a manifestation of ignorance."

The fact that their Mussolini is called "the strongest man in Europe" is but one of the minor reasons why Italy should be regarded as a great country and the Italians a great people—the condescending attitude of Englishmen and Americans to the contrary.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE.

Opponents of Governor Smith's supposed aspirations for a Presidential nomination will of course say that he is thinking of his own profit in announcing himself in favor of abolishing the old two-thirds rule in Democratic National Conventions. Though nomination by a majority vote might be necessary in the case of Governor Smith and of others, that is no argument in favor of the old rule, which has been responsible for many prolonged struggles and was largely concerned in the unfortunate spectacle in the Democratic national convention of 1924. Repeal of the two-thirds rule will be difficult, for all who hope to benefit by its maintenance and many conservatives will resolutely oppose change, but abolition of the two-thirds rule is desirable and would seem to be inevitable sooner or later. The power of one more than a third of the delegates to prevent a large majority from having their will is inherently unwholesome and will not always be suffered.

At the risk of being misunderstood and unjustly accused, Governor Smith has taken a bold and progressive step. If the agitation that follows should result in the abolition of the two-thirds rule, the Democratic party will be the beneficiary. This will remain true whether Governor Smith should decide to seek the nomination in 1928 or not. A two-thirds rule may still be desirable in certain governmental connections, but a clear majority of the delegates to a political party convention should have power to nominate the man of their choice.

A good time," writes Aldous Huxley, "means going to the races, playing bridge, drinking cocktails, dancing till 4 in the morning and talking about nothing. And meanwhile the beautiful, the incredible world in which we live awaits exploration, and life is short and time flows stanchlessly. She bleed from a mortal wound. And there is all knowledge, all art. There are men and women, the immemorable living, and, in books, the souls of those dead who deserved to be immortal. Heaven preserve us, in such a world, from having a 'good time!'" However, those of us with character enough not to feel compelled to gallop with the crowd are quite free to make our own choice of a "good time."

A writer in the Forum thinks that "poets" of the new school "do not really believe in their hearts that their shrill little squeals and cat-calls are somehow expressing their vision of life, but are simply inspired by the determination to write verse as unlike that of Longfellow as possible." Some observers have thought that they chose to do "free" verse mainly because of inability to write poetry of the old standard type.

That Body of Yours

A NEW THYROID TREATMENT.

Now that the enlarged thyroid gland in the neck has become such an object of interest to physicians and laymen, anything and everything pertaining to it is eagerly read.

That the majority of these enlarged glands apparently do no harm, aside from the patient's natural dislike of the appearance of same, is now generally admitted

However, where the severe nervous and heart symptoms, and also the pressure symptoms are present, the possibility of cure of these is of course vital.

That many are cured by prolonged rests, mental and physical, has been amply demonstrated.

Where the symptoms are severe and the rest, diet, change of scene and food have been tried without results, surgery has reached a point where the failures are simply the exceptions, whereas a few years ago surgeons hesitated to operate on the thyroid gland at all

However, there are those who dislike the idea of an operation, and there now may be a good chance for them by the use of electricity, according to the Paris Medical Journal

Two French physicians are making a combination treatment consisting of the X ray with galvanofaradic currents The electric current is used with the negative disc on the thyroid and the positive at back of neck, for a period of twenty minutes. A treatment given daily for three days then a short interval, and again for three days in succession.

The treatment was tried out in fifteen cases, eleven of which showed definite improvement, and four remain unchanged.

These physicians tell us that the improvement in the general condition of these patients was most marked, although the goitre itself did not show so much change.

This improvement in the general condition means the slowing down of the heart, and relief from the extreme nervousness that characterizes these cases.

The way this improvement is measured is by the new machine that measures the daily work of the body. A person with the severe type of goitre when lying quite still with no food in stomach or intestine, often does from a quarter to half as much work with his body than does the normal person.

After treatment with electricity the amount of work done by these eleven cases was reduced to almost normal. It is comforting to know that simple cases are practically harmless, that severe cases can practically all be cured by surgery, and that for those who dislike the idea of an operation, or whose condition is not quite good enough to withstand an operation, that these French physicians may have found something that will give relief.

Carreggio's Odd Death

The death of Correggio, the great Italian painter who lived in the early part of the Sixteenth century, is alleged to have been caused by his having to carry home a sum of money due him for a picture he had painted, and pa d in copper coins to humiliate and annoy him. The painter carried the money some twenty miles on a hot day to save the expense of hiring a conveyance. The subsequent exhaustion led to a breakdown that ended in his death.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

New York State Furnished Many Heroes in Civil War; First to Fall Was Colonel Ellsworth, May 24, 1861.

One of the brightest pages in the history of the State of New York is that on which are inscribed the names and deeds of her sons and daughters during the Civil War. Reference to only a few of the quarter of a million of those who fought in that great struggle may be made here.

First of all, perhaps, stood the noble General James S. Wadsworth, of Geneseo, whose patriotism was unimpeachable, who had vast wealth, high social position, ripeness of years, and gallant sons to represent him on the field, yet he raised troops and led them to battle, and at the head of the Fourth Division of the Army of the Potomac laid down his life on the battle field of Chancellorsvile, Va.

There were the gentle and scholarly Major Theodore Winthrop, the author, who died heroically at Great Bethel, Va.; the dashing General Michael Corcoran, whose valor earned for him the rank of brigadier general, and who lost his life near Fairfax Court House, Va.; Colonel James Cameron, the first officer of that rank from the north to lose his life in the war, he was killed leading his "Cameron Rifle Highlanders" (the 79th) in ever memorable advance on Bull Run, July 21, 1861; the noble General John A. Dix, who performed such a conspicuous part during the war, whose civic robe and army uniform alike became him.

Other heroes were Thomas Devin, a modest mechanic, who became a major general; Daniel E. Sickles, leader of the Third Corps at Gettysburg; General Thomas F. Meagher, of the Irish Brigade; General Francis C. Barlow, scarred with wounds received in "the Wilderness;" General Daniel Butterfield, the veteran and brave chief of staff; General Thomas A. Davies, who was at the front from Bull Run to Appomattox; General Emory Upton, who also fought through the war and remained in the army the balance of his life; General Alexander S. Webb, chief of staff to General Meade; General Phil Sheridan, the greatest cavalry officer who ever lived, and that youthful and fearless Colonel Elmer E. Ellsworth, all of the army.

The heroes of the navy include such men as Commander William B. Cushing, who destroyed the "Albemarle;" the gallant Commander Henry H. Gorringer, who served on both land and sea; the courtly Captain William E. LeRoy, who received the surrender of the "Tennessee;" the brave Commodore John W. Livingston, who commanded at Norfolk during the war; the heroic Commander James W. Nicholson; and the modest and brave Commander John L. Worden, of "Monitor" fame.

Perhaps the most tragic death of any of New York's heroes was that which claimed the life of Colonel Ellsworth, which was also the first in this great sectional strife.

He was born in Saratoga county, N. Y., April 11, 1837. After entering a mercantile life in Troy and New York city, he removed in 1851 to Chicago, where he studied law. His taste for military life was pronounced. In 1860 he organized a company of zuaves, which became renowned for the perfection of their discipline

Prior to the Civil War he entered the law office of Abraham Lincoln, in Springfield, Ill. His company of zuave cadets accompanied Lincoln to Washington in 1861, when Ellsworth returned to New York city, and organized a zuave regiment composed of firemen, of which he became Colonel.

This regiment was known as the New York Fire Zuaves, and sailed for Washington April 29, 1861, and on May 24 occupied Alexandria, Va.

Before going into camp Colonel Ellsworth saw a Confederate flag floating above the Marshall House mounted to the roof, and secured the flag; on his way to the street, he was shot down by J. W. Jackson, the proprietor of the hotel, who in turn was immediately shot and killed by Private Francis E. Brownell, of Ellsworth's command.

Ellsworth's body was carried to the White House in Washington, where the funeral services were held. Interment was made in Mechanicsville, N. Y.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

TURTLES IN SUMMER

"There are some who complain of the heat, and there are some who complain of the cold," said Master Timothy Turtle.

"And there are others who complain of both," said Master Teddy Turtle.

"Yes," said Master Timothy Turtle, "there are some who grumble when it is winter and talk of how they hate the cold weather, and that it is simply too much for them.

"Then when the summer comes they say they cannot bear the heat.

"They say the cold makes them unhappy and miserable and that it's so hard to get warm.

"When it's hot they say they feel quite ill when it is so warm, and that it is simply impossible to get cool.

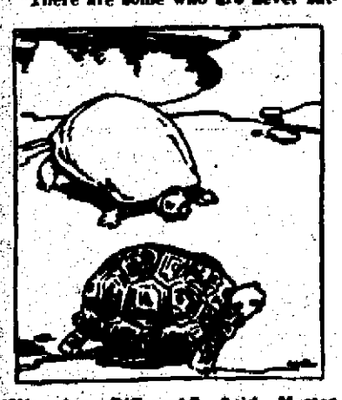
"They complain both ways."

"There are those too," said Master Teddy Turtle, "who don't even like the spring and the fall.

"In the spring it's either rainy or it's too cool or the first warm days have come and they're not used to them.

"Or in the autumn it's dreary—or something is wrong."

"There are some who are never satisfied," said Master Timothy Turtle shaking his head.



"We Are Different," Said Master Teddy Turtle.

"Now we are different," said Master Teddy Turtle. "We admit we like the heat.

"We are so happy when it is hot.

"We never grumble.

"In the winter the good keeper has our house as hot as he can get it, and in the summer we have the good old natural summer heat.

"We crawl around and enjoy life. Now today is the sort of day we enjoy. It's good and hot, good and hot, oh, so good and hot."

"That is right," agreed Master Teddy Turtle.

"We came from the islands around the coast of the Pacific ocean, didn't we?" asked Teddy.

"We did," said Timothy.

"And we used to eat vegetables, eh?"

"We did," agreed Timothy again.

"Oh look!" said Teddy suddenly.

"What!" asked Timothy.

But just at that moment he saw them.

The keeper was bringing them a special treat—a meal of tomatoes which they loved so much.

All the turtles gathered around, leaving their pool, and under the broiling sun they ate their summer meal.

"Ah, the summer, the gloriously hot summer," said Master Timothy Turtle and Master Teddy Turtle together, "when we are fed nice ripe tomatoes and eat them in the heat of the hot, hot summer sun.

And they sent a sonlet to the Zoolet society about tomatoes and the hot summer sun.

The Zoolet society is not at all fussy what sort of poetry they receive.

They like verses which tell of the animals' ways, or likes or dislikes, rather than poetry which is beautiful but not always so easy to understand. This was the sonlet of the turtles, and they always put lots of space between each line so that no one can be made weary by too much poetry of their making!

Turtles are we,
Full of glee.
For we're in a spot
Where it's good and hot.
We're having a meal
Of tomatoes ripe.
So, turtles are we,
Full of glee!

Early Postage Stamps

Prior to the use of postage stamps, which were first issued in 1847, postmasters used what were known as provisional stamps. These were in the nature of a rubber stamp which served the purposes of postage. It showed the prepayment of postage and was similar to the postmark of letters today, and usually bore the word "Paid," name of the office and the amount of the postage remitted.

Famous Old Bell

Bells were used in very ancient times by the Jews, Greeks and Romans. The great bell of Moscow, Russia, was cast in 1733, and cracked in the following year. Its weight is estimated at two hundred tons. The metal in the bell is estimated to be worth $250,000. When it was being cast gold and silver are said to have been thrown into the molten mass as votive offerings.

Eating for Health

"Drink a pint of milk a day and stay healthy," advises the public's health department. Milk is a strengthener of the heart, the American's weakest spot. Heart disease leads the national death list. There is also no better food than milk for children and for growing boys and girls. To this should be added an abundance of vitaminas and minerals from vegetables and fruits. A well-balanced diet should include meat, eggs, milk, bread and a variety of fruits and vegetables. That best maintains the upkeep and growth of the human machine and supplies body energy.—Copper's Weekly.

Think of That!

"Wow! Of all the inventions!" exclaimed an amazement stunt at a office stand in a downtown office building. "A delegate man just came up to me the pay telephone. When he came out of the booth he wanted me to refund his nickel. He said he called the number of some fellow who had lived at a certain address a year ago and found they had moved away. He said the party that answered the telephone told him so. And he demanded his money back. He was mad because I wouldn't give it to him. Nothing ordinary, he said. Can you beat that?—Detroit News.

Adds to Gold Volume

A new gold ore is reported to be discovered by an engineer in India, which it is said will greatly increase the world supply of gold. "Golden ore" is the name given to the new discovery both in Europe and in the United States, Mexico and South America. It comes under the head of a superphosphate ore, and gold can only be extracted by a special process.—Detroit Free Press.

Railroad Would Join President in Hades

A young man had succeeded his deceased father as president of a small railroad in the Southwest. The old man had been heartily disliked, for he had worked his employees and his road to the last gasp and the new president on his first inspection trip found the equipment in bad shape. Toward evening his special stopped at a division point and he got out. As he walked alongside his private car he met a grizzled old "car think" who was busy tapping the car wheels with his little hammer.

"What do you think of the car?" the president asked.

"Good enough for the mile it rides on," was the malapropos reply.

"Well, how about the rails?"

"Rotten."

"Listen here," said the young executive, "do you know who I am?"

"Sure. You're the president. I know your father when he was president, and he's going to be president again."

"What do you mean? Don't you know my father's dead?"

"Yup," the old-timer bobbed. "I know he's dead. And the road's going to hell, too!"—The Penny Ollie Cat, by Hollis Hovell.

Church Organs Destroyed

In England there are an number of organs condemned during the national period. Archdeacon says: "During the present destruction of organs in the time of Cromwell we have an exception of the richness of the church organs during the fifteenth and fifteenth centuries. The organs inherited and richly decorated the organ the were completely over-turned and their pipes melted down for bullets."

Colonials Take Breezy Contest

Plainfield Pitchers Are Easy For Local Sluggers—Rossback Too Much For Visiting Hitters—Three Homers.

With circuit clouts and the blustery weather seeking vainly to stir the Plainfield outfit's dreamy afternoon Eddie Phelps's forces clouted their opponents all the way back to New Jersey Sunday at the Fair Grounds as they chopped off their third win of the season by a 12 to 2 tally.

The Colonials battered the two New Jersey moundsmen in all directions in their effort to get 18 hits and win the ball game. Savage was first chosen to take charge of the downstaters' work and after six innings the Plainfielders came to the conclusion that he was not doing his task too well so Gingras was promoted to the position and wound up the day.

Freddie Rossback was on the mound for the Colonials and where the New Jersey pair acted charitable he showed signs of frugality. While the enemy twirlers let eighteen hits get away, Freddie offered only six. Only once did the New Jersey team give evidence of knowing what to do with their hits, displaying this knowledge in the second frame. This was the only time that the Plainfield team were able to grasp hold of two hits at a time.

McKloskey, the Plainfield third sackman went to the plate this frame and smacked a four-bagger over the hat sign. Then when Freddie walked two men, Savage hit a single and scored one of the pass holders, making two runs this frame.

The Colonials were as blustery as the weather the first frame with Hernie McCue having plenty to do with it. Phelps started with a single and after two outs scored as Raskin pelted a single. Then Bernie McCue already burdened down with an enormous cargo of base hits added to his load with a huge poke which cleared the hat sign at a safe altitude and then soared off on a tack for Kingston's business section. With Raskin scampering ahead of him Bernie's crash made three runs for the Colonials.

The Colonials were all decked out in their new raiment of gray with their title written across their chests and black caps and socks.

The locals were crowding runs across in smaller portitons at will until the sixth frame when Rossback went hot after McCue's altitude record. This frame Allen and Murray were on the paths when Rossback let out a furious drive to the enemy's right flank which sent the horsehide skimming over the fence and three runs across the platter.

Johnny Peters failed to appear on his beat at short Sunday. The fleety infielder was laid up with a charley-horse which he picked up last week in New York.

Patrolling Johnny's area was Eddie Phelps, Jr., who pocketed everything which came his way in grand style.

Kelly Herbst was on the receiving end for Freddie but this was not all for Kelly was slamming the ball all ways with four hits out of just as many chances.

Probably next Sunday there will be a young war at the Fair Grounds with the Colonials and the Havana Cubans mixing on the same diamond and both trying to take away the same ball game.

Tagging Major League Bases

Pittsburgh shattered Cincinnati's winning streak, pounding three pitchers for fifteen hits and winning 7 to 2. The Reds got only three hits off Yde, who in previous games had not lasted long enough to work up a respectable lather.

Returning to their own back yard, and cheered by the familiar sound of pop bottles bouncing against the umpire's head, the Robins ended their six-game losing streak with a 3 to 1 victory over the Giants. Brooklyn won the game off ring in the first inning, while the Giants could not get within speaking distance of Petty until Snyder hit a homer.

The Yankees made it twelve straight by trouncing the Red Sox, 8 to 3, and increased their lead to six games. Hoyt pitched and Collins got a homer.

The Athletics knocked Walter Johnson off the rubber and beat the Senators 5 to 3. Simmons continued his terrific hitting.

Ted Lyons of the White Sox whitewashed Cleveland, 1 to 0, a single by Eddie Collins bringing home the bacon. Sherry Smith pitched well for the losers.

The Browns lost to the Tigers, 2 to 1, as Holloway outpitched Davis.

Chicago scored seven runs in the eighth in walloping the Braves, 14 to 8. The Cubs used seventeen players.

Carlson won again for the Phillies, beating the Cardinals 7 to 5. Extra base hits won for the Phils.

HACK WILSON ARRESTED IN MIDNIGHT RAID.

Chicago, May 24.—Hack Wilson, hard-hitting outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, was at liberty on bond today following his arrest in a midnight raid on a north shore "beer parlor." Hack was loaded in the wagon with eleven others and taken to jail.

Sergeants Roche and Bourke of Town Hall Station, described Hack's attempt to "steal home" several jumps ahead of the raiders. The Bruin slugger was tagged, they said, as he was sliding through a rear window.

The place was raided, it was learned, on complaint of the Cubs' management.

Welters Promise Busy Schedule

Latzo Announces That He Will Be a Fighting Title-holder and Walker Will Fight His Way Back For a Title Bout.

New York, May 24.—If Pete Latzo, the new welterweight champion and Mickey Walker stick to the program they have outlined for the summer there will be more activity in the welterweight division than has been crowded into the last two years of milling in that class.

Like all champions when they are settling into the golden seat, Latzo announces that he will be a fighting title-holder and will not dodge any of the leading contenders. Walker has declared his intention of whipping all other candidates who may stand between him and a return match with the new champion.

With the weight of the title off his shoulders Mickey will not be particular about his opponents or the purses. At least, so he says. Both he and Jack Kearns declare that Latzo's promise of a return bout is little more than a gesture at this time. Walker must prove that he has come back from the shadows of mediocrity before he can really demand another title shot.

Look through Latzo's record and you will find that he has been pushing leather industriously for a couple of years. This record is more or less private, inasmuch as it does not appear in either of the standard ring record books of 1926. That shows you how far the braker boy from the anthracite mines had to come to win his title.

Walker, on the other hand, has participated in just four major engagements since 1924. Last year he fought only seven battles altogether Incidentally he did not look good in any of his three big fights—with Greb, Shade and Latzo.

Walker laid off too long between fights. For Latzo he trained faithfully, but gymnasium exercise and sparring with "inferior complex" partners failed to deliver Mickey in the ring at Scranton the "toy bulldog" who bowled over rivals on his way to the title.

Latzo may box Walker again in Philadelphia late this summer, and then again he may not. He cannot be blamed for doing some "collecting" with his title Several matches have been offered him in New York, and he probably will meet Joe Dundee or one of the other contenders at one of the New York ball parks within a few weeks.

Dundee stands out at present as the leading contender in the east, if Walker is excepted. Latzo is going to have a peek at Baltimore Joe when Dundee fights Willie Harmon here next Friday night.

OPENING OF BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY

Muirfield, Scotland, May 24.—Twenty-four American invaders launched an attack here today, with the British Amateur Golf Championship as the objective.

Twenty-two years ago Walter Travis, an American, won this honor and despite determined attempts no American has ever won it since that time.

Today's attack is the greatest concentrated effort ever made by any American aggregation.

Weather conditions were almost perfect, the sun playing gloriously over the rolling Muirfield fairways and only a slight east wind blowing from the sea.

The gallery was small, possibly because the Scotch resent the innovation of charging an admission fee to see this tournament, the price of admission having been fixed at sixty cents.

PETTY RECEIVED WORD OF HIS MOTHER'S DEATH.

New York, May 24.—Many of the 30,000 Brooklyn fans who watched Jess Petty pitch his team to a 2 to 1 victory over the Giants yesterday, are wondering if they would have cheered so lustily had they known that the twirler out there in the box was dazed by the news that his aged mother was dead.

Petty's mother died a month ago, but the family in Texas, realizing he could not make the long trip in time for the funeral, wrote, instead of wiring him and he received the letter just before the game started. Petty said nothing to his team mates, took his position on the mound and won the game.

Rubens Inspired by Wife

Rubens, the great painter, was so inspired by his second wife that the genius flashed anew, according to art critics. Many critics also say that her likeness appeared in his religious and mythological paintings for which afterward. She is said to have furnished the inspiration that blossomed forth in "Diana," "Andromeda in Despair" and in "Susanna."

Vowel Formations

There are numerous theories concerning the formation of vowels. C. E. Rogers, writing in "Your Voice and You," says: "The theory most commonly accepted and most generally taught is that they are shaped in the mouth by various positions of the lips and tongue, which positions furnish so many forms or molds into which the column of vibrated air is poured."

American Eagle

The makers of the American republic decided upon an eagle as an emblem, and unfortunately the species known to them was the sea or bald eagle, confined only to the bleak, and a "piratical parasite of the ospray." The golden eagle, to which a change has been made on the coins of the country, is confined to the west.

War Declared on Dead Eye Dick

Automobile Drivers Who Emulate Notorious Pirate by Traveling With Only One Headlight Burning to be Object of Crusade to Make Motoring Safer.

"Dead Eye Dick," that notorious pirate with a patch over one eye, a stiletto in his teeth and a gun on either side of his belt, has his modern counterpart in motorists who drive with only one headlight burning. Nor has the effect changed with the living standards since the one-lamp motorists leave as much confusion, death and destruction in their wakes as the one-eyed pirate of buccaneer days. It is this class of Dead Eye Dick drivers on whom war will be relentlessly continued until every 1926 "Dead Eye Dick" has been won over to the ranks of two-lamp drivers or has been corrected by other means.

Night driving is becoming increasingly hazardous due to the numerical growth of those who drive with only one lamp lighted. Doubtless this sort of driving is done unconsciously rather than intentionally or maliciously, but that fact does not minimize the danger of such practice to both the driver and the approaching motorist. Recognizing this danger automotive engineers have recently developed an "implement of warfare" that is to correct single-lamp-driving and take the Dead Eye Dick motorists off the night road.

This device is merely a small column of glass mounted on a light steel bracket that can be attached to any automobile head light. This column of glass is curved to a point just above the lamp shell and it is this glass that saturates itself with light when the lamp is burning, thus indicating to the driver whether his lamps are in full operation. If this little glass can be seen peeking over the lamps to the driver, proper lamp operation is indicated. If either column of glass is dark, the driver, from his seat behind the wheel, can see and realize that one of his head lights is out.

To any motorist the glare of a single approaching lamp is most confusing. It is not unlike meeting a motorcycle side car after it is too dark to see the side car. Because of this confusion it is difficult for the driver to know how much road to give or on what side to pass the approaching car. In this way the single lamp driver endangers his own as well as other lives and property. Scores of motorists have been forced into the ditch or curb because of this practice, not infrequently with serious consequences.

With 20 million cars in daily service today and additional millions coming, it remains for us to exercise every detail of care—to make no compromise with safety. Be certain it is always the other fellow, who is the Dead Eye Dick, urges the National Safety Council.

Got Films of Eagles Feeding Their Young

My hide was built on the side of a cliff on one of Scotland's wildest mountains, and before me there was a large eyrie of the golden eagle, one of the earliest of our birds to build their nests. By my side was a motion picture camera, and the work was all the more fascinating because I knew that never before had these great birds been filmed, writes Oliver G. Pike in the London Mail. Suddenly there was a noise like a great wind—the eagles had returned. The hen came first, then immediately behind came her mate with a mountain hare in his talons. Together they sat on the nest, and portions of the flesh torn from their prey were given to the eaglet.

Several times during my stay at the nest the birds came and went. Once I saw the male flying across the great valley a mile away. Even at this distance I could see that he was carrying a load, and as he came nearer I saw that he was bringing another hare. This was dropped on the side of the nest, and now the hen brooded over her youngster, while he went off over the wild mountains to forage for a meal for himself.

But the most difficult work is fixing the eagle away from the nest, where there is no youngster to act as bait for the parents to return. This has, however, been successfully accomplished and many scenes in the life of our king of birds have been recorded.

Out on one desolate moor there was a wind-swept tree. At the base were a few shattered branches and these saved the life of one plucky bird. Above an eagle was waiting. Each time the bird left the protection of the tree the eagle flew from his perch and endeavored to strike, but each time he did so the animal ran quickly to shelter. The bird had the good sense to remain under the tree, where the eagle could not easily attack, until darkness saved her. Then she trotted off and joined her herd.

WESTERN WOOD-CHUCKLER.

These interesting creatures of the marmot tribe are quite familiar to those visitors in Yellowstone Park who have quick eyes and a keen sense of humor. On any convenient elevation overlooking a well-traveled highway, one may find a colony of wood-chucklers perched by their holes enjoying the passing throngs. During the height of the tourist season, many of the older and more infirm wood-chucklers laugh themselves to death, but there always seems to be plenty of young ones to take their places. Formerly the animals were exceedingly merry, but since so many of the overweight feminine tourists have taken up knickers, the chuckles emanating from the colonies have become rather sardonic, as shown in the picture.

Nothing but an egg will approach the shape of the wood-chuckler's body, and to it is fastened the filbert head with popcorn ears and eyes, nose, and mouth done with pen and ink. The forelegs are cloves and split navy beans, the hind feet split peanuts, and the tail is a section of pipe cleaner.

LUTHERANS COLONIZE FARM NEAR WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., May 24.—The newest colony of Lutheran immigrants in Canada has increased its population by one with the birth of a baby boy ten days after the colony was settled. The colony consists of four Lutheran families of young people from Hungary, who selected a site near Petersfield, Man., purchasing on the "half-crop payment" plan a farm from Mrs. Martin Luther, a medical practitioner of Minneapolis, Minn., whose late husband was a direct lineal descendent of the first famous Martin Luther.

According to the terms of purchase, which were negotiated by the Rev. P. H. Kohlmeier, of the Lutheran Immigration Board of Canada, and R. C. Duncan, of the Canada Colonization Association, $26,000 will be paid beginning December 1, 1927.

The members of the new settlement have lost no time in converting the resources of the district to practical use. They shot enough rabbits to make rabbit pie for a week, according to R. C. Duncan, who was also impressed with their thrift in going out into the marshy grounds to cut enough willow to make brooms for their stables. "They were good brooms, too," he said.

The Lutheran colony possesses twenty fine cows, which Mrs. Luther sold with the farm, and full equipment of implements and other stock for carrying on successful mixed farming.

Study of Posture as Basis for Hypnotism

San Francisco, Cal.—Experiments with insects and animals disclosing that they can be put into a condition resembling hypnosis by being placed on their backs and prevented from righting themselves has prompted Prof. H. H. Severin of the University of California to investigate the possibility of inducing hypnotism of human beings through posture.

Professor Severin, explaining this method of hypnotizing animals, said: "When an animal is laid on its back the instinct is for it to right itself. Prevented from doing so, the animal's muscles become tense, and it assumes a state of hypnosis. It is devoid of feeling and reacts to only one or two simple impulses.

"The only animals I have found that cannot be thus hypnotized are cats and dogs. They are immune because they have been handled so much by humans."

Tuesday Closes Boys' Week Here

Max Reben, as chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the Boys' Week program, concerning the "Boys in Citizenship and Industry," is making splendid plans for the observance of this phase of Boys' Week. H. N. Smith, of the Bay Scouts of America, is assisting.

The committee plan to arrange for the handling of the city government for one hour on Tuesday, and to also have the various business executives plan to turn their desks over to one of their junior employes for the same hour.

The Boy Scouts will act as patrolmen, particularly looking after the school children crossing the streets just before and after school hours.

The purpose of this day is to intelligently instruct the boy in the use of the ballot and to visualize to the boy the opportunity of rising to places of honor in political life.

In industry to particularly give the boy the vision of the opportunity in business and professional life.

Clarence Dumm, of the high school faculty, is assisting Mr. Reben in the part pertaining to the citizenship program, while Mr. Corby, of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, is developing the boy in industry plan.

Business men who would be willing to aid in this program are asked to get in touch with either Mr. Reben or his committee, so that full recognition may be given the men and the program.

The boy and the industry phase has the approval of Secretary Cox, of the Chamber of Commerce, who is in hearty accord with the plan and is working with the committee.

Too Cold to Snow

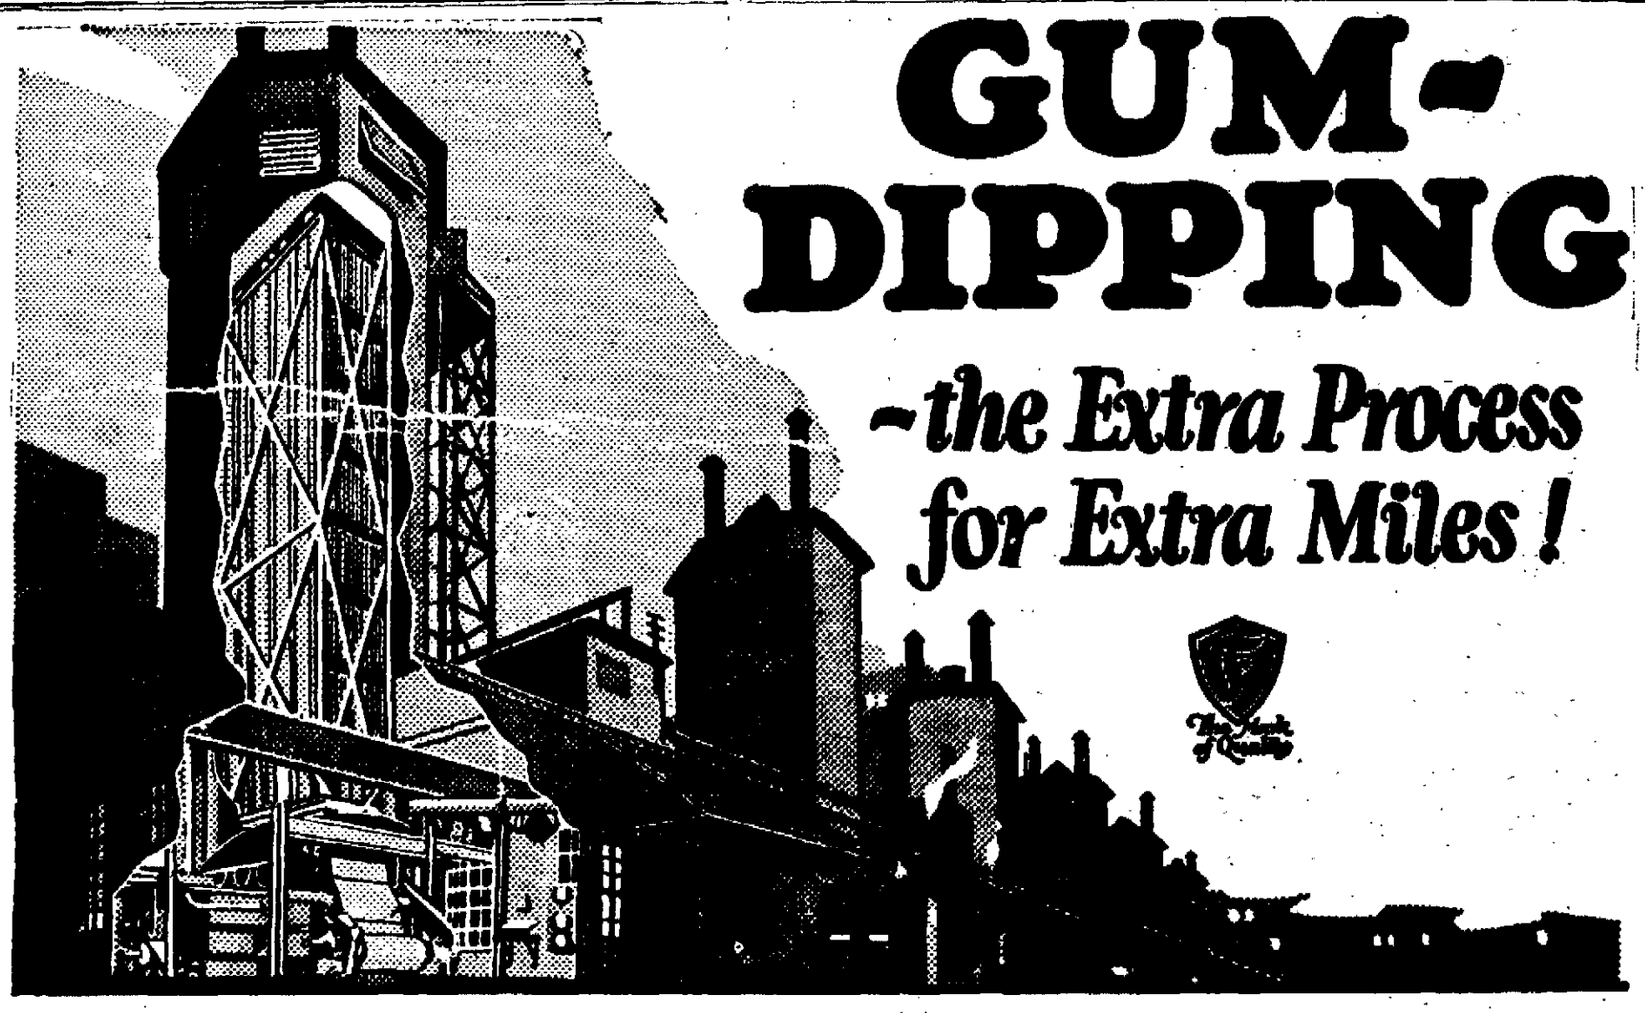
The weather bureau says that the greater number of more or less heavy snows come with southerly to easterly winds—i. e., in what is known as the "rainy" portion of the cyclonic or storm area. These winds generally are relatively mild. As the storm passes the winds come from the northwest, roughly, and are relatively cold. In short, precipitation comes with relatively warm easterly to southerly winds, and clear weather follows with relatively cold northwest winds. If, then, the winter wind is from the northwest, it is cold, and from the wrong direction to give much snow. This, presumably, is the origin of the saying, "It is too cold to snow." This statement, however, is not literally true, for light snows can occur at any temperature; and, indeed, it occasionally happens that heavy snows occur when the surface air is quite cold.

Back to Barley Bread

Distilleries are using less barley in Scotland, and the farmers face the problem of disposing of their crops. Why not return to barley scones and barley bread, an agreeable change from wheat loaf? This would relieve John Barleycorn of part of his burden, suggests the Christian Science Monitor.

GUM-DIPPING

—the Extra Process for Extra Miles!



Section of Firestone Gum-Dipping Units With One Tower Cut Away to Show Interior

Here's Where Tire Economy Starts

One of the outstanding developments by Firestone Research Engineers is the process of dipping the cords in a rubber solution which impregnates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber. This adds strength to the cords and reduces to a minimum internal friction and heat so destructive to tire life.

The Gum-Dipping of the cords made it possible for Firestone to develop the Full-Size Balloon Tire which gave car owners not only comfort and safety but a definite dollars-and-cents saving in increased mileage.

In the battle of tires on race tracks—in the day-in and day-out service of the largest truck, bus and taxicab fleets—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere — Gum-Dipping has demonstrated its supremacy in greater economy, safety and comfort.

Do not deny yourself these advantages. Equip with Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. They are built as only Firestone can build them, and will perform as only Gum-Dipped Tires can perform. See the nearest Firestone Dealer.

Tortillas in Mexico

Tortillas are large round cakes of popular consumption in Mexico. They are made by soaking corn grains until soft, then crushing them into a paste, generally by working them with a roller or similar instrument on a large stone and shaping them into the desired size and cooking on iron or earthen plates.

SCHOOL DAYS

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MASTERING SELF

THE serious matter of mastering self, of subduing at the right moment the flame of passion when it begins to hiss and flare up, calls for exceptional patience of which most of us are sadly deficient.

A glaring eye, without a word being spoken, may sever the friendship of years and set humans fighting and clutching at each other's throats.

"He that is slow to anger," says the good Book, "is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

How many hearts have ached for days and days, because of an angry word, spoken in a fit of bitter resentment!

How many homes have been undone for the same reason.

Impassable gulfs have suddenly opened which time can never bridge, because two hot-headed persons have lost control of their tempers, and are too proud to admit their error.

Ill humor, asperity, frowns, scowls and angry words, if you will consider the results they produce, will be found to be the direct cause of more failures in life than the lack of ability.

Men and women of temperament, quick to the touch, as a hair-trigger, have frequently lost prized opportunities in a moment of irascibility, by blurting out a smarting word which a day later they would gladly give anything they own to recall.

Even death, which might have been averted by self-control, has occurred from a sudden burst of passion followed by a seething storm of words.

If something rankles your spirit, or sets your heart pounding at an unusual speed, say nothing until you can compose yourself.

Cares, anxieties, sorrows and disappointments in many lives will be found to be the kins of tiffs, tantrums, irritability and a contentious spirit.

Try to forget them by cultivating new thoughts and a closer communion with faith and the great outdoors.

Whether a principal or a subordinate, the one thing under all conditions to do when in a state of mental disturbance is to hold your tongue until the peppery storm subsides, and you feel and know that you are once more capable of mastering self.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Zona Gale Was Earning $15 a Week.

"AT THE age of twenty-one I was employed on the staff of the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin at a salary of $15 a week.

"At that time my ambition was to write fiction and plays—the only ambition connected with work which I have ever had, save to write much better stuff than I had already written.—Zona Gale."

TODAY—Zona Gale is one of America's leading writers. In one respect she is unique among American women writers in that she produces both novels and plays. No other American authoress has done that save Rida Johnson Young, and she is known more as a librettist and playwright than as a novelist.

The work that brought Miss Gale fame was "Miss Lulu Bett," a novel which won the Pulitzer prize for the best American novel of the year and which later, in dramatic form, had a long run in New York and throughout the country. The second play of Zona Gale's, "Mr. Pitt," also dramatized by her from one of her novels, was produced, but did not duplicate the success of her first stage venture.

There is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to love this life and live it as bravely and faithfully and cheerfully as we can.—Henry Van Dyke.

SOME FISH DISHES

FISH are always in season, fresh or canned, and many wholesome dishes may be prepared by using the seasonable kinds of those whose prices agree with one's purse. There is no way of serving the firm-fleshed fresh fish like roasting. Fill with the following stuffing and bake until very tender:

Piquant Stuffing.

Pour half a cupful of vinegar over three cupfuls of bread crumbs, squeeze dry and add to the crumbs one-half cupful of melted butter, one cupful of chopped olives, three chopped pickles, one small green pepper and curry powder to taste.

Broiled Fish.

Any good-sized fish of firm flesh is good for broiling. Split the fish, remove the backbone and brush with melted butter, broil over a clear coal fire if possible, or under a gas flame. A five-pound fish will require a half an hour. Serve with latticed potatoes which have been fried brown.

Fresh Fish Balls.

Flake any left-over cooked fish and mix with an equal quantity of seasoned mashed potatoes, fresh and hot; make into balls, add egg and dip into egg and crumbs.

Baked Trout With Shrimp Sauce.

Wash and dry a large trout. Gash each side in half a dozen places and lay in each gash a strip of fat salt pork. Brush the fish inside and out with melted butter mixed with lemon juice. Put a rack in a baking pan; on it lay the fish, pour a cupful of boiling water into the bottom of the pan and place in a very hot oven. Allow 12 minutes to the pound for cooking and baste three or four times during the cooking. Cook together one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, add the water from the pan after removing the fish, season with salt, pepper, a little kitchen bouquet, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice and one-half cupful of finely-chopped shrimps. If the sauce is too thick add boiling water. Garnish with parsley and lemon quarters.

Vancouver Tree Memorial

In Petersham churchyard, Surrey, fir trees grown from seeds sent from British Columbia have just been planted over the grave of the explorer, Captain Vancouver, who gave the city of Vancouver its name.

The other day a business man called his wife on the telephone.

He reached across his desk and pulled the telephone instrument in front of him.

She walked from the back of the house to the front and then downstairs to answer; when she was through talking she walked back.

Yet her time is certainly as valuable as that of the clerks in her husband's office, every one of whom has an extension telephone.

An extension telephone in the home saves many steps; its convenience is worth many times the few cents a day that it costs.

Our Commercial Office will be glad to tell you about it. Telephone there today.

Composition of Grenadine

Grenadine is made from the pomegranate. The juice, when cooked with an equal amount of sugar, produces a beautiful red-colored sirup, which is greatly improved by the addition of a little lemon sirup. This serves to bring out the aromatic flavor and increase the acidity. A sirup of this nature constituted the original grenadine sirup, much used in Europe in the preparation of soft drinks.

Classis of Ulster Missionary Union

Spring Conference at Saugerties Largely Attended—Interesting Addresses Delivered on Missionary Subjects—Union Opposes Commercializing of Sabbath.

The spring conference of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Classis of Ulster was held in the Saugerties Reformed Church on Wednesday, May 19, the morning session opening at 10:30.

The conference was called to order by the president, Mrs. M. A. Weed of Kingston, who the assemblage was glad to welcome after her long illness. With her on the platform was the vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Church of Kingston.

After the singing of a hymn devotions were conducted by Mrs. J. R. Steketee of Kingston, who read from First Timothy, second chapter, calling for prayers, supplications and intercession for all men, especially for all in authority. Prayers were offered by Miss Maye Osterhoudt of Flatbush, Mrs. Frank Brink of Lake Katrine, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden of Kingston, Miss Anna Searle of Kingston and Mrs. Steketee. Mrs. J. V. Wemple of Saugerties cordially welcomed the conference and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden of Kingston responded fittingly. The president then appointed the resolution committee, Mrs. Robert Nicholl chairman, and place committee, Mrs. Charles DuBois, chairman.

Following the singing of a hymn, interesting and inspiring reports of auxiliaries represented were given by the secretaries as the roll was called by Mrs. Ellsworth, corresponding secretary of the union.

Mrs. Weed announced that owing to sudden illness Mrs. Tabor Knox, who was to have spoken at this time, was unable to be present. It was voted to send a telegram to Mrs Knox regretting her illness and hoping for a speedy recovery.

The Domestic Board had sent as an able representative in place of Mrs Knox, Mrs. Edgar Tilton of New York city, who, as well as being a member of the board, is vice-president of the Synod of New York.

Mrs. Tilton said she would take as her text, "Who Is My Neighbor," and then, as she had been told it was a mark of a good preacher to so do, would wander from the text all she wanted to. She began by giving some statistics showing the comparatively small percentage of Americans populating the country, especially the larger cities, and the challenge to Americans as to caring for their neighbor, Christianizing them, and making them Americans in every sense. She made her hearers see very clearly that this was a problem confronting every Christian, individually, and as a church. She also told some interesting facts showing the worth while things being done among the Indians, the Japanese, the Italians, and just touched on the Kentucky mountain work.

The conference then adjourned to the basement of the church, where a bountiful luncheon was served by the ladies of the Saugerties and Flatbush churches.

The afternoon session was opened by singing, followed by prayer by the Rev. John Neander, pastor of the entertaining church.

This was followed by the reports of the secretary and treasurer and the continuance of the roll call of auxiliaries, as there was not time to hear from all in the morning. There were only three of the auxiliaries comprising the union that were not represented.

The president then presented Dr. Sarah Hosman, medical missionary to Arabia, who gave a graphic description of conditions in this most difficult country in which to work of all our foreign fields. The terribly intense heat conditions from which there is no relief night or day, causes dreadful skin diseases. There is malicious eye trouble prevalent, and the barriers of superstition and fear of the Christian are terribly hard to break down. All present sensed the awful hardships back of the work Dr. Hosman is so cheerfully doing, and is so well fitted for with her bright, cheerful personality. After this address, showing the steady, if slow progress of the work in Arabia, the ushers took up the offering.

The resolutions committee then reported, thanking each and everyone who had had any part in the conducting of the conference, the entertaining churches, and expressing the desire of this conference to go on record as favoring law enforcement, and against the commercializing of the Sabbath day. These resolutions were adopted.

The place committee reported that the Church of the Comforter of Kingston wished to invite the conference to meet with them in the fall. Mrs. Weed accepted the invitation with pleasure.

The conference was closed with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Bedford of Bloomington.

Dazzling Teeth

That Movies' $100,000 Stars Use and Leading Dentists Urge.

SCIENCE has made important discoveries in restoring "off-color" teeth to clear whiteness, and in firming tender gums. One's whole appearance may be quickly changed.

Most tooth ugliness (as to color) now is traced to a film that forms on teeth. You can feel it with your tongue—a slippery sort of coating.

That film absorbs discolorations, breeds bacteria, invites tooth decay and gum troubles. Old-type dentifrices failed to combat it successfully.

That's why your teeth are now off color. Clear it off, and you'll be amazed at what white teeth you have.

High dental authorities urge a new-type, film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent . . . different from all others. You feel that film coat go. Beautiful color and high polish come.

All druggists sell Pepsodent in large tubes.

less time, keep charm under trying hygienic conditions. New way provides true security—discards like tissue

OLD-TIME sanitary methods bring unhappy, fretful days. Now the insecurity of the hazardous "sanitary pads" has been ended.

You wear sheerest gowns, meet every and all social or business enactments in peace of mind . . . any time, any day.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX" at any drug or department store. Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Fat Society Women Quit Diet; Use Gum

Science has discovered a remarkable, new fat-reducing treatment which makes starving diets unnecessary. Stout Fifth Avenue matrons, always on the lookout for newer and better ways to keep shapely, have reported losses of several pounds a week from this treatment. It consists of taking a certain harmless medicinal ingredient, purely vegetable—free from thyroid and dangerous drugs—which quickly dissolves the fat cells. It acts quickest when well chewed. Hence it is embodied in a deliciously flavored chewing gum called "Slenda." Local druggists have stocked a good supply so we can all follow Fifth Avenue's lead and "Slenderize with Slenda."

Clever Fashions for Younger Set

Sports Dress Permits Wide Choice in Materials and Colors.

Springtime is a particularly interesting season for the younger set—especially the girls between thirteen and seventeen, when all mothers and chaperons are puzzled as to what to do with them, what to approve, what to withhold, and, among other important considerations, how to plan their dress. The girl who is growing up presents a problem, the solving of which, asserts a fashion writer in the New York Times, challenges wisdom, taste and tact. A girl of fourteen may either be just a little girl, loving still the junior frocks, or she may have to be reckoned with in a more sophisticated style of dress. Anticipating the activities of young people during the spring, modistes and shopkeepers have prepared countless attractive models to intrigue the fancy of misses and juniors.

This season the needs and longings of these young people have been most cleverly anticipated. Models of frocks, suits, coats, ensembles and millinery for every conceivable occasion have been presented in advance by the cleverest creators of Europe and this country. It is always stimulating to visualize a design for youth and prettiness, and the fashions for young women have become, through late seasons, quite as interesting as those for grown-ups, keeping pace with their new ideas and variants.

Sports dress is the first consideration for the spring wardrobe, and the models of this type have never been more attractive. The jumper suit carries on, more popular, if possible, than it was last season. This jolly, chic, wholly comfortable outfit has been found to be adaptable equally to a young girl, a sub-deb or the mother of both. The model has been so universally accepted that this season's version is in a way standardized.

Jumpers for Hard Wear.

These jumper frocks of wool are intended, of course, for the strenuous sports or general utility of the spring season, when they will receive hard wear, and for occasional use through the later months at seashore or mountain resort. They may be worn with or without a topcoat, most often with just a fur piece or with one of the scarfs of wool, taffeta or crepe in gay colors, so fashionable this season. For frocks of wide use crepes are more in demand than any other single fabric. They are now to be had in many different weaves and weights.

Nothing is so definitely suited to a greater number of occasions as the frock of some sort of crepe, from the heavy supple crepe satin to the sheerest crepe Elizabeth or georgette. Bengaline of the heavily corded sort, poplin and taffeta are also among the latest materials used successfully in the jumper frock. All of these offer much comfort because they are worn so easily under the coat, and those made of the more fancy materials, or embellished with needlework, are suitable for more formal occasions. One sees now jumper frocks distinguished from jumper suits because they are made of lighter materials—linen, lace, embroidery and the most fragile stuffs.

With this simple, matter-of-fact conception as a foundation a surprising number of different styles may be established. The boyish jumper is an intriguing thing. It is smart, easy and gives always a well-groomed appearance, especially to a girl of slim athletic figure. A sports jumper suit of Alvatheen authorship built of plain and novelty-wool goods combined has a blouse that extends well below the hips, with a narrow belt six inches above. A deep shirt bosom buttons down the front of the blouse with a cluster of narrow shoulder tucks. The shirt is plain with the requisite plain armband at one side. This shirt-bosom model is worn in the severely tailored suits made of two materials.

Another sports model is composed of jersey cloth in a lovely new shade of coral. The skirt of this is laid in its entire circumference in inverted box plaits, very flat and narrow in effect. The blouse of this slip-on type is sleeveless, with wide armholes, and the neck is cut with a deep V in front. This is finished all around with a stiff band of the goods and is worn over a shirt of white crepe de chine, buttoned high with a soft turnover collar and long sleeves that are finished with a narrow wristband.

Variants and Modifications.

Within certain limitations the blouse or jumper of this two-piece frock has several variants and modifications between that of the sleeveless model in lace over a skirt of chiffon and the severe shirt-bosom blouse or norfolk made of stout goods. One point is especially varied in the latest suits—the length and treatment of the blouse. One model of the slip-on jersey type is embroidered in an amusing manner with a procession of little animals across the front. Another is decorated with a flock of birds and still another with baby elephants. These are not designed for nursery tots, but for young ladies between the ages of fourteen and eighteen.

Some exceedingly swagger jumpers from Paris are coat-like in character and others are patterned after the classic norfolk jacket, with one of the many new belts of kid, patent leather or suede. A few are shown with fullness brought out through a bias or side clusters of plaits below the belt. In an ultra-smart suit done by Lanvin the short skirt of crepe de chine is plaited so closely as to produce a punctuated ripple at the bottom. Some blouses of velvet flare sharply at the sides and have two little pockets with flaps and a narrow kid belt. These are worn as slip-ons and the neck, which is slit down the front for eight inches, closes at the throat with a soft turn-down collar. This is a somewhat sophisticated version of the two-piece, which is suitable for one of the seniors of the misses' class.

All of the costumes designed for girls and young women this season are not divided. There are one-piece frocks in diversified styles in all the new fabrics and beautiful colors. The flare and bias line so common last year is seldom attempted in the new models. Instead, there are the plaited skirt and flounces, both plaited and gathered, creating the desired fullness in another way. The straight line is being used once more as the starting point by many designers. From shoulder to hip the silhouette is unchanged, with only two novelties in detail—the neck, which now varies from the button to the round or pointed, and the sleeve. For the last year the slogan has been a sleeve all the way or no sleeve.

Styles in Sleeves.

Among the new frocks are some elbow-length sleeves and many more of the very latest style, which is the short cape sleeve cut in one with the bodice, kimono fashion. Dresses for every occasion are made with the usual waist, hip length, with material gathered on in an entire flounce, or attached in different arrangements. One especially effective model is put together in two sections, each with a straight length of the goods from neck to hem.

Every jumper frock from Paris must have a plaited skirt. This requirement solves very cleverly the problem always before the Paris designer of wresting last year's garments from the clutch of the woman who has grown attached to their smart practicability.

The house of Chanel has added a footnote to this general order, plaiting the jumper blouse as well; and Suzanne Talbot has joined them in stating that the blouse should be lengthened to within a foot of the skirt hem. This suggestion might be more intriguing if we had not already grown too familiar with the long, separate waist known as the tunic blouse.

A Skirt of White Pleated Crepe, Featuring Fine Peasant Pleating, Is Complemented by a White Tussaigh Jumper Patterned in Ombre Block Design in Shades of Red and Brown.

For those slender enough to get away with it, as the descriptive phrase goes, there are horizontal stripes, quite the smartest of all. Sometimes they have the coloring of Neapolitan ice cream, sometimes the dash of two strongly opposite colors, such as white and Capri blue, violet and black, or magneta and cream. In any event, there must be personality in the striped sweater.

Every season flings a new banner of color to the breeze, but in the background fly the old reliables. On the crest of the wave of popularity for summer at the present writing are the soft southern tones of coral sands, sunni, and June rose. But in all of the excitement, do not forget the little touch of red, the sauce piquant to the fashionable pudding colors.

Child health specialists agree —that growth depends less upon quantity and variety of food than it does upon kind

Know the growth foods . . . those that contain protein in helpful amounts . . . and how much of the child's daily requirement is supplied by the amount you serve.

One delicious breakfast dish alone, Mother's Oats with milk, a cup of each a day, furnishes 23% or nearly one-fourth of the amount of the tissue-forming protein needed daily during the growth years.

Do you plan meals for the grownups, then let the children have just what they do?

Many children who have their meals in this manner are well fed but frequently under-nourished.

Well fed because they get plenty to eat, but under-nourished because they are not receiving certain foods—growth foods that children must have if their physical development during the period of most rapid growth is to be sound and perfect.

Few foods, if any, equal the importance of Mother's Oats with milk for growth.

It supplies the one element in food most needed for the growth years—the tissue forming protein.

And it is made from the whole grain, such as is recommended by child health specialists for the growth years; nothing is taken from it. It contains the indispensable vitamins and minerals . . . and a tender covering of bran that growing children need.

DAINTINESS IS FEATURED IN SUMMER AFTERNOON GOWNS

ENTHUSIASM for the new modes in afternoon frocks mounts and mounts as the season advances and one dainty and pretty gown follows another across fashion's stage. It is the becomingness of afternoon dresses that places them first in our affections and everything conspires to help them to success in this regard. Beautiful colors, in supple or sheer fabrics, new skirt and neck lines and unending variety in sleeves, are all contributing their part toward making afternoon frocks that will prove flattering to their wearers. The trick is simply to make the right choice in all these matters—to select a becoming color, a graceful silhouette, the proper neckline. There is so much variety in design to choose from that there is no excuse for failure.

The factors that account for the dominance of the new modes begin with the fabrics used—georgette, chiffon, taffeta and other silks, crepe de chine and similar crepes—and is followed by the vogue for lingerie accessories and for lovely work in combination with embroidery. Nothing is more popular than bandings of lace on georgette dresses, unless it is the combination of plain and printed materials, which is developed in many ways. A pretty combination of this kind is shown here in a model that is recommended for the slender woman's consideration. A crepe dress with straight bodice and skirt with shirred fullness in apron fashion, across the front, introduces printed silk in collar and bandings and in puffs for the sleeves at the wrist. Crepe, like the dress, makes the sleeves puffs and the price low at the neck. Chemise or plaited skirts of plain material are joined to tunics in printed patterns and considerably narrower lengthwise panels of the printed material are inserted in the plain skirt. Or the dress may be made of a printed fabric with bell sleeves and deep border at the bottom of the skirt, introduced in a plain material.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

WJZ made a good job of "The Gondoliers." The Carrillon may be a wonder, but on the radio it is not as good as the simpler chimes of Trinity, Grace or St. Patrick's Cathedral.

WGY transmitted a marvelous prelude to the evening church service. The sounds were as though a mob were demolishing the church and slamming the fragments around.

WDBZ was in fine form and even transmitted the organ prelude well. WDBZ is worth saving and your $2 for membership in the WDBZ Radio Club will help save it. Summer is coming with static and other things and you will appreciate WDBZ some night when you cannot get anything else.

Graney Saved Boy From Drowning

Victor Tomatski, 15 years old, was rescued from drowning in Devil's Lake Sunday by John Graney, 51 years old, an employe at Terry's brickyard. Tomatski, who resides on Fourth avenue with several other boys had gone fishing in Devil's Lake. He slipped in and would probably have been drowned except for the prompt action of Mr. Graney who was some distance away when he heard the other youths shouting Without waiting to throw off his clothing, Mr. Graney plunged in and carried the lad to safety as he was disappearing for the last time.

After administering first aid the lad was taken home by Mr. Graney, evidently none the worse for his experience Mr. Graney resides at 35 Rock street.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 24.—Scouting parties in the speculative district failed to find any evidences of the return of the public to the stock market today, and the professionals accordingly continued their policy of selling stocks in every section of the market, with special attention to the motors, tire and rubber stocks and specialties which led last week's closing rally. The movement did not not carry prices down very far, however, since good buying of the rails, oils and other industrials effectively turned the tide and thereafter the trend of prices was moderately upward.

A spurt in railroad stocks failed to bring in any considerable amount of outside participation, and the rally was short-lived. Atchison, New Haven and a few other railroad stocks gained a point or so near the opening, but interest in them thereafter was negligible.

The bulk of oil stocks was inactive.

Pools in a few of the specialties raced their favorite stocks upward to the highest prices for the movement, the list including International Combustion Engineering; Freeport Texas, National Biscuit and Gotham Hosiery. National Cash Register recovered 3 points, American Telephone & Telegraph continued to move upward; American Can again topped 45 in active trading; Texas Gulf Sulphur and Gulf States Steel were strong.

Jewish Bazaar Has New Features

All is in readiness for the big bazaar at the Jewish Community Center which will start tonight. The bazaar will run an entire week, coming to a close on Monday evening, May 31.

This evening the Sisterhood of the Temple Emanuel will serve supper in the new and spacious gymnasium on the first floor of the Community Center. The women of the Sisterhood have achieved an enviable reputation when it comes to feeding the "inner man" and they have promised to outdo themselves this evening. Supper will be served from 5 until 8 o'clock.

The hall itself has been laid out to resemble a street in Palestine and is perfect down to the most minute item. Typical scenes in Palestine will greet the eye everywhere. Hundreds of articles of real value will be on sale at the many booths. From "Rebecca's Well" many surprising things may be drawn.

For those who wish to dance, music will be furnished by a well known orchestra of five pieces.

On Monday evening, May 31, the last night of the bazaar, a bicycle will be given away free of charge to the most popular boy in Kingston.

The entire proceeds of the bazaar will go for the Jewish Community Center Building fund.

Believe Bootlegger Left a Million

Chicago Police Searching For Fortune of Mystery Man Who Was Shot to Death — Looking for Woman Named "Mildred".

Chicago, May 24.—Police today are seeking a $1,000,000 estate said to have been left by Frank Cremaldi, mystery bootlegger and friend of Al "Scarface" Capone, who was found murdered here last week. Cremaldi, known also as Benton, is said to be from Detroit.

Cremaldi is known to have banked $7,000 two weeks ago, just before his arrest by detectives who had been trailing him, and is said to have remarked that the money was "a couple of days' profits." Police declare he either has deposited in banks, under an assumed name, or placed in safety deposit vaults, close to a million dollars.

Cremaldi was found blindfolded and shot four times, beside his car in Franklin Park. Mildred Kavanaugh, 24-year-old divorcee sought in connection with Cremaldi's death, has been found and proved to the satisfaction of police that she was not with him on the night of the murder. Police now are seeking another "Mildred" who, it is believed, can shed light on the murder.

Saving the Pine Forests

Albany, May 24.—The Conservation Commission started its first crew in the work of eradicating white pine blister rust on land outside of the Forest Preserve on May 16 and by June 1 will have twenty crews at work.

Last year, when the season opened earlier, this work began on April 16 and yet with the handicap of the late spring the commission is planning to cover 40,000 acres or thirty per cent more than during 1925.

In the 10,000 acre tract of land on Tongue Mountain which was acquired by the state for park purposes there are 6,000 acres of white pine and the state will clear 2,000 acres of this of all currant and gooseberry bushes, the intermediate host of the white pine blister rust, this year. There is also in this tract 700 acres of open farm land which the state will plant to white pine just as soon as the land has been protected by the removal of any currant and gooseberry bushes that may be there

On the east side of Lake George William T. Knapp, one of the largest land owners is completing the eradication of 2,547 acres began three years ago. Just as soon as Mr. Knapp was convinced that the removal of all currant and gooseberry bushes was necessary to the protection of his white pine he began eradicating and has continued ever since. This summer he plans to cover 500 acres and to complete the eradication work next year.

Pedestrians Must Observe Rules

Deaths and Accidents from Motor Vehicles Show That Motorists Are Not Always to Blame—Both Classes Must Be Educated.

Albany, May 24.—Statistics for April compiled by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles indicate that unless greater care is exercised by both the motorist and the pedestrian, New York will suffer severe losses from death and injury during the coming year.

In April 3,597 accidents resulted in 167 deaths and injuries to 4,009 persons. In April, 1925, the number of deaths in street accidents was 159. It is significant that of the 157 persons killed during the last month 113 met death as the result of motor vehicles striking pedestrians. Ten deaths were caused by failure of motorists to stop at railroad grade crossings, and only 4 deaths resulted from motor vehicles colliding. The remainder of the deaths resulted from collisions with street cars, other vehicles, fixed objects, such as telegraph poles, hydrants and fences, and non-collision accidents, that is machines turning turtle or going over an embankment.

The fact that 113 pedestrians were killed emphasizes the need of traffic control. In many cities where traffic control systems are in effect, the laxity of the police, the motorist and the pedestrian nullifies the effect of the control system.

Enforce Crosswalk Ordinances.

In some cities having a red stop light, an amber light to clear and a green go signal, it has been noted that both pedestrians and motor vehicles start on the amber light. This accounts for many accidents. If traffic signals are to be effective they must be observed by the pedestrian, and, in addition, the motorist must lend his cooperation; and in all cases a strict enforcement of crosswalk ordinances should be adhered to by the police, so as to compel reckless and heedless motorists, and also indiscreet pedestrians, to observe rules which have been laid down for universal safety.

In many cities where traffic control is regulated by lighting systems both the pedestrian and the motorist fail to observe proper caution where the motorist is permitted to make a right hand turn, which brings him across the stream of pedestrian traffic. It is practically impossible to prevent left and right hand turns at all intersections, but where they are permitted, unusual care must be exercised to reduce the startling accidents and deaths which are being caused from this type of accident.

No Spasmodic Enforcement.

Enforcement to be effective must be uniform and not spasmodic. Changes in police regulations affecting parking or other traffic rules should be given sufficient publicity, and the motorist should be educated as to the necessity of observing these rules.

During the month 60 children were struck and killed while playing in the streets. In many of these cases the motorists had no opportunity of avoiding the accident. In other cases, however, the driver could clearly see children playing in the street, and in such cases it was his duty to have his machine under such control that it could have been stopped immediately when the emergency presented itself.

Other frequent violations of regulations committed by the motorists were: Exceeding the speed limit: did not have the right of way, and driving on the wrong side of the street. Practically all of these violations can be summed up in one word "speed." If the driver had been proceeding at a cautious rate, practically all of these accidents could have been avoided.

Danger at Crossings.

It is interesting to note that of the 3,597 accidents, 1,590 occurred at street intersections. 28 of these resulting fatally. Many drivers feel that if they have the right of way they will cause an accident rather than yield. The right of way is one thing, but remaining alive is another. It is quite difficult to anticipate what the other driver intends to do, so it becomes necessary, in many instances, for the motorist to have his machine under such control that if he sees another motorist deliberately intends to violate the law, he will be able to avoid an accident. Many motorists driving along the street notice pedestrians crossing, sound their horn, and feel it is incumbent upon the pedestrian to remove himself from the highway to avoid an accident. Many pedestrians have poor eyesight. Others have defective hearing. The mere fact that a motorist sounds his horn does not mean that the pedestrian has heard it. The fact that a machine is going straight toward a person does not mean that the person has seen the approaching vehicle. These conditions must be borne in mind by the motorist if he is to avoid accidents with pedestrians.

Auto Makes New Conditions.

The motor vehicle is of comparatively recent origin. There is a class of pedestrians past middle age, who are unaccustomed to this new hazard of the streets. Special care must be exercised by the motorist with this class of pedestrians, because it is hard for them to adjust themselves to new conditions which we find presented with the increased number of motor vehicles traveling the highways.

With the summer months approaching and children playing in the streets, there is need of proper playgrounds for the children. There is need for parents to warn children frequently of the dangers attending the use of the streets as a playground, and the motorist, from his point of view, must exercise continual care to eliminate child fatalities.

Briefly, the problem resolves itself into one of education, in which all agencies must join, if we are to assist in preventing the needless killing and maiming of the people of this state.

State's Biggest Planting Project

Albany, May 24.—The largest single forest planting project ever undertaken in the State of New York is now in progress in townships 26 and 30, Totten and Crossfield Purchase in Essex county, on land adjoining the tract decided upon by the Conservation Commission for a game refuge on the Boreas river. Sixty planting crews of two men each under the direction of Foresters Albert H. King and A. T. Davis, of the Conservation Commission are now planting 100,000 trees a day.

The land on which this plantation is being made was originally a spruce forest but was heavily cut and then burned and has been waste land since 1903. The entire tract will be reforested with Norway spruce seedlings and 2,000,000 trees will be required to cover it.

Arthur F. Amadon, supervisor of Blister Rust Control Work is in charge of the entire project, and expects to finish the work by June 5th.

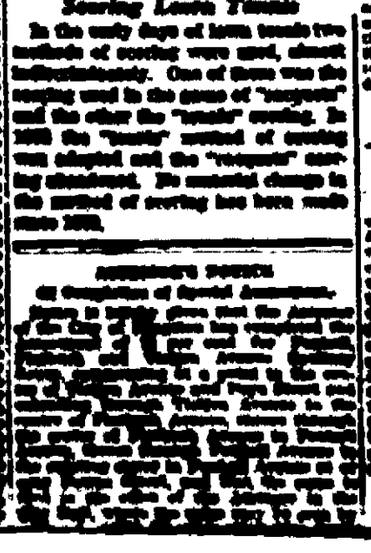
Sowing Lawn Tennis


In the early days of lawn tennis two methods of courting were used, almost indiscriminately. One of these was the singing used in the game of "tennis" and the other the "tennis" scoring. In 1875 the "tennis" method of scoring was adopted, and the "rougets" scoring abandoned. No material change in the method of scoring has been made since 1875.
